Subject: Call for articles for 18th edition of "National Water Monitoring News"

California Water Quality Monitoring Council

Dear Water Monitoring Colleagues and Friends,

We are soliciting articles for the 18th edition of the Council newsletter (National Water Monitoring News). This electronic newsletter highlights recent activities of the national Council as well as those of state, regional, and tribal councils, watershed partnerships, and volunteer monitoring groups and much more!

I know a lot has been done by the California Water Quality Monitoring Council workgroups and this is a great way to get national exposure for all of the great work and tools you have developed. The National Council also has a webinar series that could provide additional opportunities to publicize your efforts and identify new partners.

If you or your colleagues wish to contribute, we will need your draft text with any supporting figures and/or photos (with captions) by March 15, 2019. Articles or announcements should highlight recent successes, projects, publications, tools, conferences, or findings of interest to this community or announce upcoming events that might be of interest. Please visit our website for further guidelines for contributors.

Please feel free to forward this announcement to colleagues or groups that might have an interest in contributing to the newsletter. We look forward to hearing from you!

Thank you,

Nick Martorano
